Important Notes on Submitted Work

1. Any programming languages, computers or devices can be used.
2. All submissions must be original works. Please refrain from submitting entries that have been submitted to other similar contests. However, submissions of improved versions of the works previously submitted to this contest that did not pass the preliminary round are acceptable.
3. Ensure that the work does not infringe on any intellectual property rights or similar rights.
4. Ensure the work is appealing from the viewer's perspective when publicly displayed.
5. Please incorporate any measures to minimize operational issues.
6. Please be aware that the submitted PDF files introducing the works may be published on the official website of the contest or other platforms.

Important Notes on Online Application Forms

Please note the following points when filling out the “Online Application Form”.

1. Please note that special characters including emojis or images will not be reflected in the data even if entered.
2. Please clearly enter the team name, as it will be reproduced directly in electronic media.
3. The team name entered here will be considered the official name. This team name will be used in all subsequent print materials, etc. Please do not use the names of actual systems, companies, or other organizations.
4. The supervising faculty advisor cannot be changed after the application is submitted.
5. Changes to student registrants will only be permitted during the official entry process after passing the preliminary round. Please note that names will be listed in official guidebook, certificates, and other materials using the names provided in this registration. No corrections will be made.
6. Please note that all communications from the organizers to applicants will be sent in MS Teams. The submitted e-mail addresses of student members and the supervising advisors will be registered to MS Teams.
7. After submitting the online application form, a confirmation email will be sent in a couple of business days.
8. Online application form can be resubmitted any times during the application period.
9. If any teams wish to cancel the registration, please contact the organizers through MS Teams or by e-mail.

Important Notes for Creating and Uploading PDF Files for Application Material

1. Read the "Competition Section Guidelines on Creation of Application Material PDF file (Preliminary Round)"
2. Before submitting, have the application material PDF file reviewed by the supervising faculty advisor, then upload it to the online application form.
3. Uploaded file will be shared to the team in MS Teams, where applicants can verify the file. Please confirm it is submitted correctly.
4. Access may become congested near the application deadline, so please register well in advance.
